

Thanks to a routine cargo vessel check, the Indonesian police were able to prevent a smuggling attempt. They found about 150 exotic birds stuffed into plastic drain pipes that were sealed at each end by a wire. The animals were meant to be transported to the US, where they were to be sold as pets. Officials assume that the operation was planned and executed by a wildlife trafficking ring. This delivery would have been worth approximately $250,000. Nearly one week after discovering the illegally captured birds, the police arrested four men who purportedly attempted to commit the smuggling. The suspects face up to five years in prison and a fine of up to $8000 if found guilty. The case rests on an anonymous tip, which provides a very weak case for the suspects' guilt. Moreover, all four suspects appear to have plausible alibis. Thus, it seems very unlikely that they were involved.

Thanks to a routine cargo check, Indonesian police were able to prevent a recent smuggling attempt. They discovered 150 exotic birds stuffed into a pipe sealed by wire at each end. The shipment had an estimated total worth of $250,000. Four men were arrested for purportedly committing the crime. If found guilty, they face up to 7 years in prison and an $8,000 fine. However, all of the men appear to have an alibi, and it is unlikely that they committed the crime.

Thanks to a routine cargo check, Indonesian police have stopped an attempt at smuggling 150 exotic birds into the country. The birds were stuffed in a pipe sealed with wire at each end, and the shipment would've been worth about $250,000. The four men currently charged with the smuggling attempt face 7 years in prison and an $8,000 fine. However, each man has an alibi, and it is unlikely that they had anything to do with the purported smuggling attempt.

Indonesian police have stopped an attempted smuggling of exotic birds into the country. The birds were stuffed in a pipe with wire taped to the ends. The shipment would have been worth $250,000 dollars. The four men accused of the smuggling face up to 7 years in prison and an $8,000 fine. However, each guy has an alibi and it is unlikely that they had anything to do with the smuggling.

Exotic birds were caught being smuggled in. Men may face close to a decade in prison. However, it suspects unlikely guilty since they have alibis.

Five men were accused of smuggling birds; however, they will be not guilty because they have alibis.

During a routine check, exotic birds were found in a cargo vessel to be smuggled into the US. Police suspect it was a wildlife trafficking ring. There are four suspects but since it was an anonymous tip that led to the discovery and the four suspects have alibis, it could be unlikely that they are involved.

Exotic birds were found in a cargo vessel. It is suspected that they came from wildfire trafficking. There was an anonymous tip that lead to the suspicion of 4 individuals, but since the tip was anonymous and the suspects had alibis, it is unlikely that these suspects are involved.

Suspects were probably wrongly accused of illegally trafficking exotic birds.

Indonesian police prevented an animal smuggling with a routine cargo check. They discovered 150 exotic birds stuffed in pipes closed off with wires. They were going to be smuggled to the US to be sold as pets. If successful, the birds would have been sold for $150,000. Thanks to an anonymous tip, a 4 individuals have been identified as suspects in the smuggling. They face a potential 5 years in prison and $8,000 in charges each. However, all 4 gentleman have plausible alibis and there isn't enough evidence stacked against them. Thus, it doesn't seem likely that they committed the smuggling at this point in time.

In an American-bound Indonesian boat, smugglers stuffed 150 exotic birds to be sold for an estimated $150,000. The bids hidden inside inside pipes closed off by wires. Thanks to an anonymous tip, authorities uncovered the attempt. Four suspects were identified, but none were convicted on account of plausible alibis.

In an America-bound Indonesian boat, 150 exotic birds were going to be smuggled. They were hidden in pipes wrapped with wires. Four suspects were found but weren't convicted because of plausible alibis.

There was an indonesian boat with 150 exotic smuggled birds going to america, but were caught midway

There was an indonesian boat with 50 birds, but they were caught midway