

Since mid-April 2018, a region in Bavaria, Germany, has faced a series of fires set by one or more vandals that ignited trash cans, a car, and even an entire town house. At its peak, 8 different fires were started in a single night. Fortunately, nobody was hurt, but the material damages are estimated at around $450,000. The police could not make significant advances in finding the perpetrator until they publicly offered a reward of $6000 for each helpful tip. A crumpled-up black shirt found at one of the crime scenes and bearing a unique design may have been the critical clue. About a week ago, the police arrested a 37 year old suspect on charges of second-degree arson. If found guilty, he will face up to 10 years in prison. According to recent reports though, experts don't believe that the existing evidence clearly points to him.

Since mid-April 2018, a region in Bavaria, Germany has faced several arson incidents. Trash cans, cars, and even a house have been lit on fire. The damage is estimated to cost up to $450,000. The police had to offer a $6,000 reward to solicit information from the public. A crumpled up black t-shirt with a unique design may be a critical piece of evidence. A 37-year-old man has been arrested in association with the incidents, and faces up to 8 years in prison for arson. However, the police don't have very good evidence implicating the man currently charged.

In mid April 2018, a town in Germany suffered many arsons, which totaled up to $450,000 worth of damages. The police had to offer a $6000 reward for information from the public. A crumpled up black t-shirt became a key piece of evidence. Eventually, a 37 year old man was arrested. He may face up to 8 years in prison; however, there is not sufficient evidence to find him guilty of the arsons.

In Germany, arsons costing 450k pillaged the country. A $6000 reward was offered for information, and a black t-shirt led police to a man who could be sentenced to up to 8 years in prison, although police may not have adequate evidence to convict him.

A mythical army of arsons pillaged Germany and caused over $450k in damage. 6000 dollars was offered to capture the culprit, one of whom was believed to be a self-aware black t-shirt.

A mythological army invaded Germany causing extensive damage but one of the culprits was a black shirt.

Since mid-April a series of fires have been occurring in Bavaria, Germany. There has been a lot of property damage estimating at $450,000. The peak was when 8 fires were set off in one night. Police offered a $6000 reward for every helpful tip. A black shirt with a unique design was found at one of the sites. There is a suspect but experts say it is not definitively him.

There were a series of 8 fires in Bavaria, Germany. Black shirts were found at every site of a fire. The most amount of damage was $6k.

Series of eight fires in Germany, each site left with a black shirt. The greatest fire damage was $6k.

8 fires in Germany, the biggest cause 6k in damages, they all left with a black shirt

In Germany, a lot of fires were set, lighting up a car and even a town house. In one night, as many as 8 fires had been lit. Although no one was hurt, the material damage equated to about $450,000. The police had trouble finding the perpetrator until they offered a reward of $6000 for each helpful tip. A crumpled up black shirt at one of the crime scenes with a unique design on it was probably the most helpful hint. The police finally arrested a 37 year old suspect, and if found guilty, he could face up to 10 years in prison for second-degree arson. However, according to recent reports, investigators think the evidence may not point as strongly to him.

In Germany, someone was lighting fires around a town including cars and homes. One night, 8 fires were lit. No one was injured but the material damage was valued at $450,000. The police offered $6,000 to any individual who presented a helpful tip in finding the perpetrator. A shirt found at one of the crime scenes led to the arrest of a 37 year old suspect, however, the police still have doubts about him.

In Germany, someone lit fires around a town with homes and cars. One night, 8 fires were lit. No one was hurt but the property damage was around $450,000. The police offered a $6000 reward for anyone who could give them a tip leading to an arrest. A shirt was found that led them to arrest a 37 year old man, but the police have doubts about him.

In Germany, someone lit fires around a town with homes and cars. One night 8 fires were lit. No one was hurt but the property damage was around $450,000. Police offered a $6000 reward for information. A shirt was found belonging to the suspect, but police have doubts about him.

In Germany, someone lit 8 fires around cars and homes. The police were able to find a shirt that they believed belonged to the perpetrator, and tracked down the suspect. They are not sure if they arrested the correct person, though.