

Since mid-April 2018, a region in Bavaria, Germany, has faced a series of fires set by one or more vandals that ignited trash cans, a car, and even an entire town house. At its peak, 8 different fires were started in a single night. Fortunately, nobody was hurt, but the material damages are estimated at around $450,000. The police could not make significant advances in finding the perpetrator until they publicly offered a reward of $6000 for each helpful tip. A crumpled-up black shirt found at one of the crime scenes and bearing a unique design may have been the critical clue. About a week ago, the police arrested a 37 year old suspect on charges of second-degree arson. According to recent reports, experts believe that the existing evidence leaves no doubt about his guilt.

There were a series of multiple arsons in Bavaria, Germany. The arsons created much material damage, and the police were quick to investigate the perpetrator. Because original investigations were fruitless, the police then turned to the public for help, offering a monetary reward. Then, a specific shirt of the perpetrator turned up, with a specialized design. In this way, the police arrested a man. Because of the physical evidence, it is indubitable that the suspect is guilty.

There was a series of multiple arsons in Bavaria, Germany. Police are offering a monetary reward to citizens who can help track down the arsonists. A specific shirt design was identified and used to track down the suspect, whose guiltiness was indubitable.

After a series of multiple arsons, police put out an offer for people to catch him, who was wearing a very easy to identify shirt

A suspected arsonist was wearing a very identifiable shirt. Police were asking the public to look for him.

An arsonist was wearing an identifiable shirt. Police were asking people to look for him.

A lot of cars have been vandalized by being set on fire. Police searched for the culprit. One clue they found was the sweater the culprit was wearing. They were able to catch him.

Many cars have been set on fire; police were able to catch the culprit of the arsons by the appearance of the sweater.

Many cars have been set of fire police have been able to arrest someone based on his sweater.

Since mid-April 2018, a region of Bulgaria, Germany has experienced acts of vandalism perpetrated by one or more people. The perpetrators have set a car, trashcans, and even a town house on fire. At its peak, there were 8 acts of arson in one night. The total cost of the damages is around $450,000. However, until police offered a reward of $6000 for every tip, they were not able to find the perpetrator(s). Recently, a crumpled black shirt at one of the scenes with a distinct pattern on it help identify the perpetrator. About a week ago, police arrested him, and based on all the evidence, there is very little doubt that he is guilty.

Since mid-April 2018, a region of Bulgaria, Germany has faced several acts of vandalism on the part of one or more perpetrators. Those responsible for the crimes have set a car, trashcans, and even a townhouse on fire. At the peak of the incidents, there were 8 counts of arson in one night. Damages to this point amount to $450,000, but until police began offering a $6,000 reward for reliable tips, they were unable to catch the criminal. Recently, a crumpled black shirt with a distinctive pattern found at one crime scene has led police to arrest the alleged perpetrator. At this point there is overwhelming evidence against him, and it is very likely that the suspect in custody is guilty.

In a region in Bulgaria, Germany since mid April 2018, several perpetrators have committed several acts of vandalism. They have done such things as burn cars, trash cans, etc. At the peak of their crimes, there have been 8 arsons in a single night. In total their crimes have amounted to more than $450 thousand in damages. Police have been unable to get any of the perpetrators until they began offering a $6,000 reward. Soon after, a distinctive crumpled black shirt was found at one of the crime scenes, at which point the police were able to pinpoint the perpetrator. The evidence stacked against this individual indicates that they are very likely guilty.

In Bulgaria, there have been extreme acts of vandalism since April 2018. The peak of this chaos was 8 arson attacks that resulted in $450,000 worth of damage. After offering $6,000 in rewards, more people started to help find the criminals. The police had no clues to help them find the perpetuators until a black shirt was found at one of the crime scenes. This evidence can hopefully be traced back to the perpetrator.

In Bulgaria, there were extreme acts of vandalism. These acts of vandalism cost up to $450,000 dollars in damage. The vandalizers were not caught until $6,000 rewards were offered for their capture. Eventually, a black shirt found at the crime scene served as evidence to find the guilty.