

On January 15, 2018, a woman (66 years old) without a ticket and passport slipped through airport security and took a flight from Chicago to London. The woman entered Chicago O'Hare International Airport on January 14. First, she hid her face with her hair and passed two Transportation Security Administration officers who were controlling other passenger's boarding passes. After she was screened, she wanted to board a flight to Connecticut but failed. When the woman tried to sneak past the gate agent, she was stopped and directed to sit down. She stayed overnight at the airport and rode a shuttle bus to the international gate the next day, even though a passport and plane ticket are required to board the shuttle. She then entered a plane to Heathrow Airport (London), where she was detained by British customs officials. She arrived back in the United States on January 18. The woman is charged with theft and misdemeanor for trespassing.

IN january 2018, a 66 year old woman was able to sneak onto a flight from Chicago to London. She came in hiding her face with her hair and originally slipped past security and tried to board a flight to connecticut. She failed and was asked to sit somewhere. She ended up staying overnight and somehow getting onto a shuttle for which a boarding pass should be required. This let her into the terminal where she boarded a flight to London. She was caught and sent back by London officials

She was caught by police then interrogated and sent to prison for three years, served about 2 then was released.

A woman was attempting to sneak herself onto a different flight. She failed her first attempt, but succeeded on the next one. However, when she arrived in Britain, she was detained by Customs and was sent back to the US.

A woman tried to sneak onto a flight twice and was successful the second time. When she arrived in Britain she was arrested by customs.

A woman tried to sneak onto a flight twice. She succeeded the second time but was arrested by British customs upon landing.

One day, there was a shifty woman who tried to sneak onto a plane. I tell you, she probably had guns or knives or bombs with her the way she was trying to get on it. Right before the plane takes off, she would try to get herself onto the wheel so that she would be able to sneak into the cargo hold. Why? I don't know but the first time she did it, she got caught. She tried it again like a week later. And she actually freaking got onto the plane! Nothing happened at first, but once it touched down, a swarm of British police surrounded the plane and checked out the passengers one by one. Once they got to her, I wish I could tell you what they found...but it's a secret.

A 66 year old woman managed to sneak out of the country without a passport or ticket and boarded a plane from Chicago to London. She managed to slip by passport control agents and they didn't even notice her! She tried to sneak home on a flight to Connecticut but was caught. She snuck away again and boarded a shuttle to another airport - even though you need a ticket and a passport to board it! - where she was detained by British customs officials. She arrived back in the US but they're rewarding her superb ninja skills with charges of theft and trespassing.
